For more information on the ritual please visit <http://www.muktithambaram.org/lailamajnu/laila-majnu-story.html> Malayalam sukranthi is celebrated in all major cities of Kerala like Thiruvananthapuram, Kottayam, Kochi, Kozhikode, Kollam & Alappuzha. The famous Malayalamukham temple, located at Kuravilangad (Kerala), has recently started the malayalam sukranthi festival on 18 November 2013. This tradition has been carried out since years by the priest of that temple. In recent days, this temple has become a pilgrim center for many lovers who have been experiencing problems in their love life. Every year the priest of the temple comes out in a procession with a chariot to a nearby temple called "Subhangi Temple", in this process he is accompanied by five elephants and dancers from the Kerala state art institute. This procession is seen by many lovers from neighboring villages and towns. After reaching the Subhagangi temple, he performs pooja at the place. These poojas are specially performed for Laila & Majnu story lovers, due to its spiritual significance which will help you get your love back. After the pooja is completed, the priest arranges for rituals like hugging of an elephant, this is to ensure that your love life will be successful in future. After this is done the 'Ponnum Vazhipadu' (offering flowers in return for blessing) is offered to Laila majnu. One special thing about this ritual is that only the Nair community people are allowed to have this offer. This ritual shows how old these stories are, since Nair community was not present in Tamilnadu until recently. In the Kerala state "Kauniyamma" is a popular goddess, who is related to love. There have been many myths behind her origin and this might have been the reason she was chosen as a god by Laila Majnu Story lovers. The major temple of Kanya-Makka-Mandir located in Mannanchery is considered as the abode of the Goddesses 'Kanya' & 'Makka'. Every year during Malayalamsukranthi festival, on the day of sathyavedhi there are religious rituals related to L.M. Stories related to this place are very famous and common, majority of people including children come here even for this festival.
